

Teacher _____ Student _____

Ludwig's dream was to be a conductor of an orchestra.

Ludwig waved a corn cob like it was a conductor's baton.

When Ludwig waved the baton fast, the barnyard orchestra played faster.

Ludwig wrote a piece of music. That made him a composer.

Ludwig tells the "fairy god cow" about the instrument families that are needed for an orchestra.

Violin, viola, cello and bass belong to the string family.

Flute, oboe, bassoon, and clarinet belong to the woodwind family.

Trumpet, trombone, French horn, and tuba belong to the brass family.

Timpani, snare drum, bass drum and xylophone belong to the percussion family.

Does Ludwig's dream of conducting a real orchestra come true? Yes or no?
